

ON MY OWN

News For Young Adults from InTouch Credit Union

First Quarter 2021 Newsletter

Understanding your Finances

If there is one thing 2020 has made clear, it's that even the most well-intentioned plans cannot account for everything. But rather than dwell on what has already happened, the New Year is the perfect time to focus on what could be, especially when it comes to any financial goals you may want to work towards.

ITCU has a variety of complimentary resources available in our Financial Awareness library, including our Knowledge of Financial Education

(KOFE) database of courses that focus on financial topics adults of any age can appreciate. These courses can be completed on your own schedule and include quizzes to test your comprehension of the subjects available, from budgeting to mortgages.

Of course, the ITCU team is available to assist with any questions you may have regarding your account, or to introduce you to one of our checking accounts that might be the best fit for you if you're getting ready to move on from your On My Own account. With our appointment-only service model, you can book an appointment at your local branch now or contact us from the comfort of your living room.

There are also plenty of tools to consider via our Online and Mobile Banking* platforms. Money Management, our free personal financial management tool, can help you track your spending, review your budgeting, set long-term financial goals and more. With an ITCU account, you can access Online and Mobile Banking today.

No matter what you decide, there has never been a better time to focus on you and the possibilities 2021 will hold.

*(*See Online and Mobile Banking pages for any associated fees and complete details.)*

For even more young adult financial literacy, visit: itcu.org/arrivalguide

Working for you and your financial well-being.

Federally insured by NCUA.

itcu.org